

God is at Work

In the past six months I have heard thirty middle- and high-school students testify publicly about the ways the Lord is working in their lives. I've witnessed the water baptisms of children who professed their faith in Jesus Christ for the first time. One of our military chaplains reports that over the last year, he and his team baptized fifty to one hundred new believers each month! And that's only a few of the 150+ InFaith ministries at work across the United States. Missionaries from across the country send me regular reports of gospel transformation, people growing in their faith and glorifying God with their lives. It's in our DNA to be creative, innovative, and prayerful as we shine the light of Christ into forgotten corners of our country.

Will you help us continue to reach our country for Christ by starting or continuing your generous support for the person who sent you this newsletter?
